Don't Slop Over.

"Don't slop over," the old man said,
As he laid his hand on the young man's head;
"Go it by all means—go it fast—
Go it while leather and horse-shoes last—
Go it while hair and hide on horse
Will hold together. Oh, go it, of course—
Go it as rapid as ever you can—
But don't slop over, my dear young man.

"Don't slop over. You'll find some day
That keeping an eye to the windward will pay.
A horse may run a little too long,
A preacher preach just a fraction too strong,
And a poet who pleases the world with rhymes
May write and regret it in after times.
Keep the end of the effort in view,
And don't slop over, whatever you do.

"Don't slop over. The wisest of men
Are bound to slop over now and then;
And yet the wisest at work or feast
Are the very ones who blunder the least.
Those who for spilt milk never wail
Are the ones who carry the steadiest pail.
Wherever you go, go in for the fat—
But don't slop over, and freeze to that!

"Don't slop over, distrust yourself,
Nor always reach to the highest shelf;
The next to the highest will gen'rally do,
And answer the needs of such as you.
Climb, of course, but always stop
And take breath a little this side of the top,
And so you'll reach it in wind and strong,
Without slopping over. Thus ends my song!

YOU CAN, CAN YOU?—"We can live without the South" Such has been the boast of New England for the past twenty-five years. What are the facts to-day? The South is crushed out; but there is nothing in the North save the blighting effects of New England's poisonous doctrines—nothing save the fruits of the accursed war, to interfere with any resources she may have hitherto possessed—independent of the same South. Why, then, does New England send up her groans of commercial distress? Because she has been forced to acknowledge that she, with all the balance of the North, was, and is, dependent upon the great consuming as well as producing section, now prostrate. New England's political virus was more than the country could stand. It has produced the state of things which exist to-day, North as well as South. One hundred thousand of the once industrious population of New England are idle and in want, mainly through Southern poverty, brought about by New England. Her manufactures in 1855 aggregated $517 240 513. In cotton goods she produced $54.500.000 per year, and in boots and shoes $52,920,000 together with a large amount of other articles wanted by the South. The staples we have mentioned were especially important, as boots and shoes were as much needed by the South—few being manufactured there—as the cotton staple was by New England. To-day, the condition of things is getting fearful in that section, which boasted it "could live and flourish if there were no South;" and so changed has become its sentiments upon that subject, that some of the cotton and woolen corporations of Rhode Island and Massachusetts contemplate the disposal of their property, taking their capital to Texas and Alabama, and erecting mills in those States. Now, let the mill operatives weigh well this move and count the cost to them. Thousands of men and women will be turned out of employment. The stampede of New England capital into the South will give the finishing deathblow to the locality that "could flourish were there no South." New England's operatives cannot go South if they would, for their employers have stated their reasons for the move to be "the economy and convenience of manufacturing cotton and wool where labor is cheap and material handy." Truly, the curse is working. New England capitalists are contemplating a move which will ruin that section. What does the great workingmen's party there think of this? Will you hug the delusion of nigger equality longer, when your moneyed men are about to trade off your white services for those of the blacks of the South? There is still a chance left for you, poor, misguided, cheated, betrayed voters of New England. Redeem yourselves! Strangle that black viper, niggerism, which thirty-five years ago you received from Exeter Hall, and took to your bosoms. It has turned upon you, and fastening its poisonous fangs upon your social and commercial structure, will soon reduce you to degradation and pauperism. Voters of New England, in November next, you can crush this viper. Will you do it?—[Day Book.

FIERCE FUN.—In Wisconsin there is a town called Oshkosh. It is regarded by the people of that section as a "great place for fun." And if we admit that the local definition of "fun" be correct, its repute is not undeserved. It chanced recently that a minister from another part of the State started to go to Oshkosh. He had gone a few miles on his journey when he was shocked by meeting a man limping along, with the blood running down one side of his face. On being questioned, the man said he had been up to Oshkosh "having a little fun with the boys." Two miles further on another man was met, with an arm in a sling, a bunged eye, and torn clothing. He told the distance to Oshkosh, said it was a live town, and that he had been up there "having a little fun with the boys." Pondering on these facts, the minister proceeded pensively until he came to a man seated by the side of the road, with a sprained arm and only one ear. He was washing the locality whence the other had been bitten off. The minister stopped and expressed his sympathy. The man averred that it was nothing—he had merely been up to Oshkosh "having a little fun with the boys." "But," said the minister, severely "what do you suppose your wife will say when she sees you in this state?" The man smiled with a sardonic smile, and putting his hand in his pocket brought forth a piece of a nose, a section of scalp with hair attached, and a piece of cheek bitten from his antagonist's face, and, holding them up to the minister, said: "What do you suppose his wife will say when she sees him?" The minister silently went his way, a sadder and a sager man.

WAR EXPENSES.—The Dayton (Ohio) Ledger says:

Even Sherman, Senator from Ohio, was obliged to admit the other day that the war expenses alone for the current year would be over one hundred and twenty-three millions of dollars, viz; $123,810,551.

A Touching Incident.

"If you want to hear Annie Laurie sung, come to my house to-night," said a man to his friend. "We have a love-lorn fellow in the village, who was sadly wrecked by the refusal of a girl that he had been paying attention to for a year or more. It is seldom he will ever attempt the song, but when he does, I tell you he draws tears from eyes unused to weeping."

A small select company had assembled in a pleasant parlor, and were gaily chatting and laughing, when a tall young man entered whose peculiar face and air instantly arrested attention. He was very pale, with that clear, vivid complexion which dark-haired consumptives so often have. His locks were as black as jet, and hung profusely upon a square, white collar. His eyes were very large and spiritual, and his brow such an one as a poet should have. But for a certain wandering look, a casual observer would have pronounced him a man of uncommon intellectual powers. The words "poor fellow," and "how sad he looks," went the rounds, as he came forward, bowed to the company, and took his seat. One or two thoughtless girls laughed, as they whispered that he was "love cracked"—but the rest of the company treated him with a respectful deference.

It was late in the evening when singing was proposed, and to ask him to sing "Annie Laurie" was a task of uncommon delicacy. One song after another was sung, and at last one was named. At its mention the young man grew deadly pale, but did not speak; he seemed instantly to be lost in reverie.

"The name of the girl who treated him so badly was Annie," said a lady, whispering to a new guest—"but oh! I wish he would sing it; nobody else can do it justice."

"No one dares sing Annie Laurie before you, Charles," said an elderly lady; "would it be too much for me to ask you to favor the company with it?" she added, timidly.

He did not reply for a moment—his lips quivered a little, and then looking up as if he saw a spiritual presence, began. Every sound was hushed—it seemed as if his voice was the voice of an angel. The tones vibrated through the nerve, pulse and heart, and made one shiver with the pathos of his feeling; never was heard melody in a human voice like that—so plaintive, so tender and earnest!

He sat with his head thrown back, his eyes half closed—the locks of dark hair glistening against his pale temples, his throat swelling with the rich tones, his hands lightly folded before him; and as he sung,

"And 'twas there that Annie Laurie Gave me her promise true—"

it seemed as if he shook from head to foot with emotion. Many a lip trembled—and there was no jesting, no laughing; but instead, tears in more than one eye.

And on he sung, and on, holding every one in rapt attention, till he came to the last verse—

"Like dew on the gowan lying,
Is the fa' of her fairy feet—
And like winds in summer sighing
Her voice is low and sweet,
Her voice is low and sweet—
And she's a world to me—

He paused a moment before he added—

"And for bonnie Annie Laurie,
I'll lay me down and die."

There was a long and solemn silence. The black locks seemed to grow blacker—the white temples whiter—almost imperceptibly the head kept falling back—the eyes were close shut. One glanced at another; all seemed awe-struck—till the same person who had urged him to sing, laid her hand gently on his shoulder, saying:

"Charles, Charles!"

Then came a hush—a thrill of horror crept through every frame—the poor tired heart had ceased to beat—Charles, the love-betrayed, was dead.

A VERDANT YOUTH thus explains the quadrille:

We both bowed to both of us, then 'tother, then the fiddle tuned, and the thing started; grabbed her female hand, she squeezed mine, we both slung each other, but she slung the most because I think she loved me for a little while; then we changed base clear across the room, jumped up and down ever so many times, passed each other twice times, then my dear and me doesed a-doe and hop skipped home again (from a foreign shore), then we two forward four, 1 ladies changed, we X over, turned around twice, shasheyed sideways. I backed to place, she dittoed; side couples to the right, to the left, side couples turn gentleman, side couples turn ladies, ladies turn side couples, gentlemen turn side couples, head couples turn side couples, all hands round back again, "first feller" take opposite side "gal," and t'other "feller's gal," forward and back, twist both gals two times, sling 'em to opposite "feller," let him do the same as you did, and back again to places; light gentleman balance to the heavy lady, duplicate, promenade all, "gals" get in the center, "fellers" get hold of each other's hand's bob up and down, arms over ladies' waterfalls, ladies stoop, jump up and down, each "feller" takes his "gal," back to places; right lady spin right gentleman, left gentleman spin left lady, all twist each other, do it over again, repeat once more, keep it up, all turn around, all turn the other, backward, sideways, each couple spin t'other couple, cross over, back.

JOHN C. CALHOUN, in a speech delivered in the United States Senate, thirty years ago, made the following remarkable prediction, which is now being filled to the letter:

Be assured that emancipation itself would not satisfy the fanatics; that gained, the next step would be to raise the negro to a social and political equality with the whites; and that being effected we would soon find the present condition of the two races entirely reversed. They and their Northern allies would be the masters, and we the slaves. The condition of the white race in the West India Islands, as bad as it is, would be happiness to ours. There the mother country is interested in sustaining the ascendency of the European race. It is true that the authority of the former is destroyed, but the African then will be a slave, not to individuals, but to the community—forced to labor not by the authority of the overseer, but by the bayonet of the soldier and the rod of the civil magistrate.

A MODEL IMPEACHER.—That saucy correspondent, "Mack," of the Cincinnati Commercial, impales Senator Morgan in the manner and form following:

When the impeachment articles were first presented to the Senate, Morgan, of New York, betrayed much uneasiness, resulting from a doubtful state of mind as to what he ought to do in the premises. Most of his life having been spent in passing judgment upon mackerel and molasses, he had given very little time to the study of those great judicial questions involved in an impeachment. He is a candidate for re-election, and is desirous, above all things, to please his constituents of the Republican party so as to secure their good will and support. How to know just what the views of his constituents were, was the great question with him. He considered the subject awhile, and finally hit upon the novel expedient of hiring an intelligent young man to travel over the State of New York, from one end to the other, visit the leaders of the Republican party in all the principal towns, ascertain their views on impeachment, and communicate the same to him. The reconnoitering tour cost a good deal of money, which Morgan cheerfully paid, and lasted about two weeks. It resulted in a report decidedly in favor of impeachment, and those who are curious as to how rigidly the Senator conformed his votes to the wishes of his constituents, as reported by his scout, can satisfy themselves by a glance at the record. They will find that the Honorable Senator has voted with idiotic consistency all the way through. The scout reported that the Republicans of New York believed Chase to be a Copperhead, and the Senator, starting upon that hypothesis, has voted Chase down, as far as he had the power to do so, every day of the trial.

THE PRINTER'S ESTATE.—The printer's dollars—where are they? A dollar here and a dollar there, scattered over numerous small towns all over the country, miles and miles apart—how shall they be gathered together? The paper-maker, the building owner, the journeyman compositor, the grocer, the tailor, and his assistance to him in carrying on his business, have their demands, hardly ever so small as a single dollar. But the mites from here and there must be diligently gathered and patiently hoarded, or the wherewith to discharge the liabilities will never become sufficiently bulky. We imagine the printer will have to get up an address to these widely-scattered dollars something like the following:

"Dollars, halves, quarters, dimes, and all manner of fractions into which ye are divided, collect yourselves and come home! Ye are wanted! Combinations of all sorts of men that help the printer to become a proprietor, gather such force and demand with such good reasons your appearance at his counter, that nothing short of a sight of you will appease them. Collect yourselves, for valuable as you are in the aggregate, single, you will never pay the cost of gathering. Come in here, in single file, that the printer may form you into a battalion, and send you forth again to battle for him and vindicate his credit."

Reader, are you sure you haven't a couple of the printer's dollars sticking about your "old clothes?"

SARCASTIC.—The New York Herald calls for a new edition of Father Grant's life of his son, the General, immediately, with "copious illustrations," "not forgetting the most prominent of them all, that of Grant, Jr., riding on a mule, with a monkey on his back" The Herald then continues:

Whichever animal he rides, he always carries a monkey on his back, in the shape of the politicians. What effect this literary contribution may have on public opinion, or how it may be used by the Bohemians, and other men of genius, we know not. We know, however, what was the effect of Gen. Scott's speeches about the sweet Irish brogue and the delightful German accent, the delicate allusions to a garment which shall be unquestionable, and the hasty plate of soup, the fire in the rear, and all other well-timed, yet ill-timed allusions of that disappointed politician; but we cannot conceive what the effect may be of this paternal biography on the fortunes of General Grant.

STICK TO A FRIEND.—Never desert a friend when enemies gather around him—when the world is dark and cheerless is the time to try a friend. They who turn from a scene of distress betray their hypocrisy, and prove that interest moves them. If you have a friend who loves you, and studies your interest and happiness, be sure to sustain him in adversity. Let him feel that his former kindness is appreciated, and that his love is not thrown away. Real fidelity may be rare, but it exists in the heart. Who has not seen and felt its powers? They deny its work who never loved a friend, or labored to make a friend happy.

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION.—A terrible case of human spontaneous combustion, which resulted in death, took place April 27th, in Cleveland, Ohio. The name of the man was Bremer. We learn that he drank on a wager six large drinks of whisky and a pint of stock ale at a sitting. With blazing face and starting eyes he then reeled towards a gas jet in order to light his pipe, when the noxious gasses issuing from his mouth were instantly ablaze, and the poor wretch was soon being consumed by an inward fire.

WORTH KNOWING.—The following is going the rounds of the papers: "One of the most annoying and painful 'little' troubles is a felon. A genuine remedy is worth circulating. It is said that a poultice of onions, applied morning, noon and night, for three or four days, will cure a felon. No matter how bad the case, lancing the finger will be unnecessary if this poultice is used. The remedy is a sure, safe and speedy one.

A BEAUTIFUL Jewess attended a party in Philadelphia, where she was annoyed by a vulgar, impertinent fellow.

"And you never eat pork, Miss M.?" he asked, tauntingly.

"No sir; our religion teaches us to avoid everything swinish, physically and morally; therefore you will excuse me for declining to have any more words with you."

YOLO COUNTY DEMOCRAT.

SATURDAY, : : : : : JUNE 6, 1868.

"How Very Wrong."—Under this caption the organ of the many worthy temperance associations in this State devotes an editorial column in defense of General Grant from charges of intemperance. The article closes in these words:

General Grant has received the Republican nomination for President. As the balances of political ascendency favor his election, we are happy in the opinion that our future President will be a sober man.

We do not propose, at present, to discuss the matter at issue, but simply to express surprise that the Rescue—for which, as an able advocate of the temperance cause, we entertain the highest respect—should condescend to wink at the "little irregularities" in the conduct of Grant, which have been repeatedly portrayed, without refutation, by such friends of the editor as Wendell Phillips, Theodore Tilton, Anna Dickenson and others. Admitting, for the sake of argument, that Grant is only a moderate drinker, which none will deny, does the Rescue mean to do violence to the cause of total abstinence by holding up as an exemplary pattern of temperance principles a man, in public or private life, who suffers one drop of intoxicating liquor to go down his throat save for medicinal purposes? It is well known that the humblest temperance organization in this State, which regards the Rescue as its leader, would without hesitation expel a member for having been "seen indulging in a glass of wine," and hence our surprise at the course taken by the temperance organ in the article referred to.

A Merited Rebuke.—There are some persons who are never satisfied with the idea of upholding the cause of a worthy Institution which honors them with a membership, unless the main features of the organization can be distorted in a manner suited to their own narrow-minded, bigoted, political and religious prejudices. As a just rebuke to such persons—and nobly in contrast with the position lately assumed by the editor of the temperance organ on this coast—the New Age, the able exponent of the principles of the I.O.O.F., gives utterance to the following, which explains itself:

Our general agent informs us of the reason why some members of the I.O.O.F. would not subscribe for the New Age. Being so natural, reasonable, and to the point, we cannot resist giving it publicity. They would delay subscribing until they found which side it would take in the coming political contest! That's a good point, well taken for an intelligent Odd Fellow. Brothers, keep your eye on it, and at the same time attend your Lodge meetings regularly for the same purpose, and whatever side your Lodge may take, you will find the New Age there heart and soul.

Oregon Redeemed!—The hideous deformity of Radicalism has been hurled from its throne in Oregon, and the Democracy are triumphant over the negro suffrage advocates in that State. The following is a special to the Reporter:

Portland, June 2—10:45 A. M.—Oregon has gone Democratic beyond our most sanguine hopes. Joseph S. Smith elected to Congress. Both branches of the Legislature certain, and probably two Supreme Judges and District Attorneys. Portland city and county Democratic.

Oregon has done her duty nobly. Her gallant action foreshadows a more glorious record next November. Thus, blow after blow falls thick and fast on the ramparts of Radicalism. Not even the names of Grant and Colfax can stay the fate that awaits the negro equality party.

Horrible Tragedy Resulting from Intoxication.—A man, named Charles O'Niell, brutally murdered his wife in San Francisco, last week, while both were under the influence of liquor. They had, it appears, lived unhappily together for some time. O'Niell, a few months ago, went to New York on a visit. Returning on the last trip of the Nebraska, he went to his residence and was soon engaged in a violent quarrel with his wife, the cause of which is said to have been a division of their property. Neighbors testified that they were both intoxicated. The quarrel was resumed next morning, when they came to blows. During the melee O'Niell pushed his wife off the balcony in front of the house, causing her to strike head foremost on the pavement below, and resulting in her instant death.

The Randolph Citizen, of Missouri, publishes a conversation with Grant in 1861, in which he was violent on the Abolitionists. He was then Colonel of the 21st Illinois Regiment, and he then said: "If the attempt is ever made to use this army to free the negroes, I pledge you my word, as a man and a soldier, that I will not only resign my commission, but will carry my sword and cast my lot on the other side." That was Grant in 1861. What he now is, shows how much his "word as a man and a soldier" is worth. Wendell Phillips says, "There can be no denying Grant's drunkenness." Take him as a "man and a soldier," and as an imbiber, he is a sweet-scented rose.

Death of Ex-President James Buchanan.—A special to the Capital Reporter, 3d instant, reads as follows:

Lancaster, June 1.—James Buchanan died at Wheatland to-day, in his seventy-seventh year.

Thus, a great and good statesman has passed away. Eloquent, earnest and untiring in the advocacy of such measures as were deemed for the country's best good, he labored through a long term of public service, enjoying the confidence of those to whom he was indebted for political preferment.

Grant will be well supported by the temperance men of the country.—[Sac. Record.

Unless he reforms, his condition will require it.

The Coming Contest.

Never before, in the history of the Government, has a contest for the Presidency been regarded with more thrilling interest than that upon which we are now verging. There are questions of vital importance to be settled in the coming election which more deeply and truly affect the problem of the future of the nation than any before involved in a like contest; and it behooves every voter, every citizen, every one who feels an interest in the welfare and perpetuation of that which he holds dear to himself, to consider well the motives and responsibilities which must necessarily attend his action. A choice is to be made of one to fill the highest station known among men—a choice in which the greatest care should be exercised—a position from which scheming politicians and men notoriously unequal to its duties should be excluded. The honors of the Presidency are due, and should only be extended to one of undoubted integrity and ability, inspired by unselfish devotion for the whole country, and whose comprehensive mind can survey the vast extent of country over which he presides, peopled as it is by the representatives of all nations, among whom conflicting interests must engage his serious attention, and tax to the utmost his executive ability.

The fame of military leadership, with its glittering shoulderstraps and epaulets, is not alone a sufficient acquirement for the representative of one of the Departments of Government, whose very existence depends, not simply on the power of its rulers, but upon the superior intelligence and fairness of its officers, and the wisdom and impartiality of its councils. The qualifications which make up the character of a successful military leader in time of war are entirely different from those which endow the statesman with power to rule in time of peace. One candidate having already entered the field whose only claim to public favor is based upon his reputation as a general, and for whom his most zealous friends establish none of the qualifications of a talented statesman capable of ruling the destinies of a great nation, it behooves the people to look well to the character of the man whom they propose to select, through their representatives in Convention, as an opposing candidate for the same high position.

From the ranks of the Democratic party a number might be selected, either of whom has the will and ability to set at rest the disturbing elements which are sapping the life-blood of liberty; but no pains should b spared by the Convention in the selection of one most eminently qualified as a pure patriot and statesman, who will fearlessly uphold the Constitution of the country, maintain the equality of States, relieve a tax-ridden people of unnecessary burdens, and advocate such measures as are best calculated to advance the interests of all without impairing the just rights of any. Such a candidate, no matter whence he hails, will command the respect and receive the award of triumphant victory at the hands of a confiding people.

State of Affairs in North Carolina.—We have been permitted to make the following extract from a letter just received by Dr. W. J. Prather, written under date of May 3d, by his brother, at Aurora Institute, North Carolina. What man, who has a decent respect for the purity of the ballot-box or who feels an interest in the welfare of his country, can read the details of such infamous proceedings without feeling his cheek tingle with the hot blood of indignation?:

Evil times have come upon us. The great election farce has been enacted, and the Constitution, made by the negro convention, has been adopted and declared the law of the land—not by a vote of the people, nor by the registered voters, but by the poll-holders. These self-constituted and corrupt censors, with strong negro guards to protect them, scouted the idea of an impartial election, and received only those votes which, after examination, were deemed worthy a place in the ballot-box. Radical tickets were received with manifestations of joy, while conservative tickets, greeted by threats and curses, were torn up in the face of voters, and scattered to the winds. Is this an exercise of a free man's privilege? In one precinct more than one hundred tickets were rejected, and in their stead Radical tickets were offered to conservative voters, with the injunction that they should vote the "right ticket" or none. Situated as we are here, we dare not report these villains. Our papers here dare not publish their evil deeds, and the only way we can get the truth before the people, is to communicate with papers North.

Murder at Lakeport.—The following account of a tragedy at Lakeport, we find in a correspondence to the Examiner of the 27th ult.:

A man by the name of Hinckley, who had left his wife, came yesterday and took one of their children from the hotel where the mother is living and started to put it in a wagon. The mother ran out and exclaimed, "For God's sake don't let him take my child," when the proprietor of the hotel, Mr. Chapman, pushed Hinckley back from the wagon and caught hold of the child. Hinckley then jumped back a few steps and drew a pistol and shot Mr. Chapman just inside the left hip, and then turned the pistol toward his wife, but was caught about that time by two men and the pistol taken away from him. This was about ten o'clock yesterday, and Chapman died about twelve to-day. Hinckley was committed to jail for ten days, but I suppose he will probably have his examination sooner.

When the "Little Giant" (Douglas) of the West breathed his last, counseling his children to be true to the nation, then Democracy should have died.—[Exchange.

When the nation was verging on a terrible conflict, and stubborn disunion Republican fanatics were opposing all compromises, and the "Little Giant" breathing his thundering eloquence in denunciation of their reckless course, then Radicalism should have died.

Resolutions.—The following resolutions were unanimously adopted by the Democratic State Convention which met at San Francisco, April 29th:

Resolved, That the expedients resorted to by the Radicals in Congress for the purpose of perpetuating their despotic power, are such as to threaten the perpetuity of the Government itself; and is, therefore, the duty of all good citizens to disregard minor considerations and local issues, and to combine in one grand and united effort to preserve the legacy left us by our fathers, to restore the industry of the country to its wonted condition of prosperity, and to relieve our people from the oppressive burden of taxation.

Resolved, That the unanimous declaration of Congress, made on the 23d day of July, A. D. 1861, "That the war is waged by the Government of the United States, not in the spirit of conquest or subjugation, nor for the purpose of overthrowing or interfering with the rights or institutions of the States, but to defend and maintain the supremacy of the Constitution, and to preserve the Union, with all the dignity, equality and rights of the several States unimpaired," has been persistently falsified by its action, and the power of the Government has been perverted to schemes of ambition and revenge.

Resolved, That the impeachment of the President of the United States by a Radical Congress (composed of those who assisted to elevate him to that high position), on the most frivolous charges, is only an additional evidence of party violence—not actuated by any solicitude for the common welfare, and which must tend to make the United States Government ridiculous in the eyes of all civilized nations.

Resolved, That Henry H. Haight, in all the elements of honesty, integrity, patriotic devotion to the best interests of the whole country, in elevated statesmanship and unswerving opposition to the disorganizing and destroying factions now threatening the permanency of Constitutional Government, stands prominent among the great men of the nation.

Resolved, That it is not only the patriotic duty, but the deliberate purpose, of the Democratic party never to submit to be governed by negro suffrage; and we earnestly recommend the adoption of this resolution by the National Convention of the Democracy which shall assemble in July next.

Resolved, That the Eight-Hour System of Labor is a Democratic measure, and ought to become a National principle—making eight hours a legal day's work on all public works in the United States; that our delegates to the National Convention are requested to use their endeavors to incorporate this declaration in the National Platform.

Resolved, That the attention of the National Convention, called to assemble at New York, on the 4th day of July next, be directed to the question of Coolie immigration into the United States, and respectfuly asked by our delegation to devise some means to be recommended to Congress to protect free industry against their incursions.

Resolved, That the action of the Radical House of Representatives of the present Congress of the United States in refusing to make the necessary appropriation for the purchase of Alaska—a territory so important to the future welfare of the Pacific coast, after that purchase had been honorably consummated by the treaty-making power of the Government, is an act of perfidy on the part of the representatives of the people, and the repudiation of a national obligation, which is entitled to, and receives, the hearty condemnation of the Democracy of California.

The Freedmen's Bureau! How long is this intolerable nuisance to last? It is nothing but a political engine, supported by the tax-paying people, to promote Radicalism. Previous to the late election in this city, hundreds of negroes were retained in this city and fed from the Freedmen's Bureau, in order that their votes might be secured to the party that pays no taxes. The nearest estimates from the reports of General Howard, including 1865, 1866 and 1867, make the expenditures of the Government for the freedmen of the South, twenty one million five hundred thousand dollars! If these people are competent of discharging the duties of citizens, they are capable of taking care of themselves. That they should be fed, or clothed, or have their traveling expenses paid upon the railroads from one locality to another, while they spend their time in idleness, out of the hard earnings of the white laborers, is simply outrageous. Twenty-one and a half millions of money will have to be dug from the soil, pounded from the anvil or wrought from the forge by the white laborers as a tribute to negro idleness in the South. And this is a part and parcel of the Radical policy of what is called reconstruction. White laborers made "hewers of wood and drawers of water" to negro idleness in the South! Look at it, you men who drive the plow, wield the sledge or shove the plane; you are the men who produce the wealth out of which this twenty-one and a half millions are taken for the support of negro idleness. Are you willing to support the men who advocate such injustice and who sustain a policy so infamous and unwarranted?—[Memphis (Tenn.) Avalanche.

The Railroad.—The track of the Vallejo Railroad has reached Bridgeport, five miles from Suisun, and the locomotive now makes through trips between the two places. An immense force is at work on the grade between Bridgeport and the tunnel, and it will be few days before the whistle of the iron horse will be heard by the people of Suisun.

The railroad between Harrisburg and Suscol is to be completed within thirty days. The Vallejo Company furnishes the iron, and the Napa Company does the work. The completion of this four-mile link gives a continuous line of railroad from Vallejo to Calistoga—the distance being forty-two miles.

It is expected that the California Pacific Railroad Company will run an excursion train to bring up the Vallejo Lodge of Masons to the Masonic celebration in this place on the 24th of June.

A strike occurred among the railroad laborers on Monday, the 1st instant—forty men quitting work. Only Chinese are now employed in grading.—[Solano Press.

Read It.—The following opinion of Lincoln, on the negro question, is a relic for the advocates of negro suffrage to ponder over:

I am not, nor never have been, in favor of making voters or jurors of negroes, nor of qualifying them to hold office, nor intermarrying with white people; and I will say in addition to this, that there is a physical difference between the white and black races which I believe will forever forbid the two races living together on terms of social and political equality—and inasmuch as they cannot so live, while they do remain together, there must be a position of superior and inferior, and I, as much as any other man, am in favor of having the superior position assigned to the whit man.

Sarcastic.—The New York Herald calls for a new edition of Father Grant's life of his son, the General, immediately, with "copious illustrations," "not forgetting the most prominent of them all, that of Grant, Jr., riding on a mule, with a monkey on his back." The Herald then continues:

Whichever animal he rides, he always carries a monkey on his back, in the shape of the politicians. What effect this literary contribution may have on public opinion, or how it may be used by the Bohemians, and other men of genius, we know not. We know, however, what was the effect of Gen. Scott's speeches about the sweet Irish brogue and the delightful German accent, the delicate allusions to a garment which shall be unquestionable, and the hasty plate of soup, the fire in the rear, and all other well-timed, yet ill-timed allusions of that disappointed politician; but we cannot conceive what the effect may be of this paternal biography on the fortunes of General Grant.

Dastardly Outrage.—Some ten or twelve days since a most unprovoked and villainous personal assault was made upon Beriah Brown, editor of the Herald, by one S. J. McCormick, in Portland, Oregon. The latter is the Radical candidate for Treasurer of Multnomah county, and the assault was made on account of an editorial in the Herald, charging McCormick with paying greenbacks to a Catholic priest who had placed gold coin in his possession for safe-keeping. McCormick is a large, able-bodied man, in the prime of life, and weighs nearly two hundred pounds, while Brown is an old man, and physically weak. Notwithstanding this, the former secreted himself under a stairway, and as Brown ascended the same the miscreant seized him in the rear and pulled him backwards, and as he fell, jumped upon him and partially succeeded in stamping him in the face with his feet. The next day the sneak was fined $50 by a Radical Police Judge. Had he received his just deserts he would have been sentenced to six months in the county jail.—[Sac. Rep. May 29th.

Got the Best of Them.—Our old friend, George Coolie Gorham, has at length got the whip-hand of his enemies, the Bulletin and the Union. He is the grand Radical ring-master for California. As a member of the Radical National Executive Committee for this State, he has full control of the canvass here, and the Bulletin and Union having become partisan advocates of the cause of "universal brotherhood of man," must obey his commands. "Time at last makes all things even." George C. will now have the satisfaction of making his old enemies do his bidding. Though, in the estimation of the Bulletin and Union, and the people, Gorham was not fit to be the Governor of the State, he is a very proper man to control those journals through the coming canvass. "The lion and the lamb shall lie down together, and the little child will lead them." And of such is the golden age of Radicalism.—[Call.

TOWN AND COUNTY MATTERS.

JEHU.—On Sunday last a "fast" young man from Knight's Landing created a sensation on Main street, by a reckless exhibition of his skill in the management of two spirited horses, attached to a buggy in which he was riding. After performing various evolutions to the disgust of church-going people, he succeeded finally in rendering the team furious and unmanagable, and the consequence was a frightful runaway, endangering the lives of pedestrians on his route. In crossing a ditch in the upper end of town he was violently thrown to the ground, and the team, thus rid of a nuisance, slackened their pace and suffered themselves to be taken care of by a gentleman who headed them off, and drove them quietly to a livery stable. Jehu was not seriously injured by the fall, though an audible wish that he might have been, was expressed by some spectators who seemed to have no reverence for King Alcohol, of whom the "fast" young man is undoubtedly a loving subject.

DISPLAY OF HORSEMANSHIP.—A stranger came to town on Sunday last for the obvious purpose of entertaining the citizens by a display of his horsemanship. He chose Main street and the side-walks as the theater of his operations, and contributed to the amusement of the boys by performing some very curious antics which could only have been concocted in a brain heated by an excess of "scald-paunch." His engagement was brought to a sudden termination by a fall from his steed—one foot hanging fast in the stirrup. He was rescued from his perilous position by a bystander who caught the horse in time to prevent the luckless rider from being dragged to death. On being released he was received into the embrace of the Constable, who kindly furnished him with comfortable quarters in the county jail.

UNUSUAL WEATHER.—The memory of the "oldest inhabitant" has been somewhat puzzled to recall a counterpart of the weather for the last few weeks. At this season of the year it is natural to expect a warm time; quite the contrary, however, a cold snap has prevailed, and instead of a clear sky overhead, ominous clouds have almost daily threatened to send down a deluge. A great deal of uneasiness has been felt by farmers lest these unfavorable prognostications would result in serious injury to the crops, but so far nothing has occurred to impair the prospect of the most plentiful harvest ever enjoyed by the farmers of this county.

SAN FRANCISCO VARIETY TROUPE.—This company of wandering pensioners on the gullibility of humanity, preceeded by flaming posters, paid our town a visit on Monday evening, and gave a lame performance to an unappreciative audience. The next morning no one could be found who had "been there" except the Deputy Sheriff, and he insists that he was prompted to attend simply by a desire to replenish the county treasury, in collecting a license from the impostors.

LADIES' FESTIVAL.—The lady members of the M. E. Church, in this place, are making preparations to hold a Strawberry and Ice Cream Festival at the Church, on Wednesday evening next. The proceeds of the festival will be used as a fund for providing the Church with new seats. The purpose is a laudable one, and we have no doubt the affair will be liberally patronized. We understand that on this occasion participants will be entertained by excellent instrumental and vocal music.

DEATH OF AN OLD RESIDENT.—Mrs. Sarah Ingraham, whose death is announced in another column was born in the city of Taos, New Mexico, and came with her parents to this country in the year 1840, at which time they settled on Cache Creek. The funeral services were held on Saturday last, by Rev. W. C. Curry, at the old homestead where, twenty-eight years ago, her parents established their home. She leaves four children to mourn their loss.

FOURTH OF JULY.—While other towns and cities are making preparations for the celebration of the coming Fourth of July, would it not be well for the citizens of Yolo to consider the same subject? Let us have a celebration by all means. The time is near at hand, and prompt and energetic action on the part of those who favor the proposition will be required to make it a success.

NORTH PUTAH.—The Democracy of North Putah will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock, to adopt a constitution and by-laws for the Democratic Club organized last week in that precinct. Permanent officers will also be elected. The meeting will be held in Plainfield school-house.

OYSTERS.—Gray & Freeman have received a new supply of the best oysters in the market. One of the firm on Friday evening left on our table a number of cans, with appropriate accompaniments. The press was stopped in order to "insert."

CROPS.—The prospect for a heavy yield of wheat and barley is very encouraging. During a visit to the ranches of Hon. John M. Kelley and Wm. Browning, a few days since, we saw growing the finest grain we ever beheld in any country before.

HORSE-TRAINING.—Prof. Walace instructed a class in the science of horse-training, at Pockman & Glasscock's stable, last week. Members of the class express satisfaction with his system and the knowledge they have gained by the lesson.

LAUNDRY.—A laundry has been established opposite Court block, on the south side, by Peter Miller, who has had many years' experience in the business.

PARTICULAR ATTENTION of those wishing to buy, sell, or lease real estate is called to the advertisment of C. S. Frost in another column.

ASSESSOR.—E. K. Swain, Assessor for District No. 8, can be found at his office, in Woodland, every Friday and Saturday.

WOODLAND DEMOCRATIC CLUB meets tonight.

WHAT IT MEANS.—The Chicago Times thus interprets the meaning of the recent glorious Democratic victory in that city:

It is the hand-writing on the wall.
It means greenbacks.
It means Pendleton.
It means revolution.
It means that a day of reckoning with the destructionists and spoil-ers is at hand.
It means that civil liberty and the rights of the States are to be re-established all over the land, and military despotism crushed under the heel of the people.

GRANT'S ACCEPTANCE.—The following is supposed to be Washburne's letter of Grant's acceptance, which the General promised he would endeavor to write before retiring to the quiet domains of Colorado, where he will be safe from the annoyance of persons anxious about his policy:

WASHINGTON, May 20th.—To General Jas. R. Hawley, President of the National Union Republican Convention: In formally accepting the nomination of the National Union Republican Convention of the 21st, it seems proper that some statement of my views beyond a mere acceptance of the nomination should be expressed. The proceedings of the Convention were marked with wisdom, moderation and patriotism, and I believe express the feelings and greatness of those who sustained the country through its trials. I indorse the resolutions, and if elected to office as President of the United States it will be my endeavor to administer all laws in good faith, and with economy, and with a view to giving peace, quiet and protection everywhere. In times like the present, it is impossible or improper to lay down a policy to be adhered to, right or wrong, through an administration of four years. New political issues, not foreseen, are constantly arising; views of the public on the old ones are constantly changing, and purely administrative officers should always be left to execute the will of the people, which I have always respected and always shall. Peace and universal prosperity, its sequence with economy of administration, will lighten the burden of taxation, while it constantly reduces the national debt. Let us have peace. With great respect, your obedient, U. S. GRANT.

STOP THAT COUGHING.

Some of you can't, and we pity you. You have tried every remedy but the one destined, by its intrinsic merit, to supersede all similar preparations. Grant, the Monkey and the Mule.

EDITORS CRISIS: I read with interest your notice of Jesse Grant's biography of his son, the General, and send you the following as apropos:

CASSABIANCA THE SECOND.

The boy sat on the pony's back,
As 'round the ring he fled—
The dust that flew up 'round the track
Fell thick upon his head.

Yet, beautiful and firm he stuck,
As born to ride wild ponies—
A creature of uncommon pluck,
A "brick" among his cronies.

The mule ran on—he'd not let go
Without his father's word—
His father faintly crying "whoa,"
Was smothered in the crowd.

The pony fast and faster flew,
With Joco running after—
Bravoes from the clown they drew,
Convulsing all with laughter.

Joco leaped with splendor wild,
Carrying his tail on high,
And sat behind the gallant child
With mischief in his eye.

There came a burst of loud applause—
The boy—O! was he there?
Ask of Joco, who, with paws,
Was combing Ulie's hair.

SHERIDAN was once staying at the house of an elderly lady, in the country, who wanted more of his company than he was willing to give. Proposing one day to take a stroll with him, he excused himself on account of the inclemency of the weather. Shortly afterward she met him sneaking out alone. "So, Mr. Sheridan," said she, "it has cleared up." "Just a little, ma'am—enough for one, but not enough for two."

LATELY an old bachelor in Michigan had a dream that he had gone on a visit to Ohio, and there met a lady whom he married. Being seriously impressed with the dream, he at once made a trip to the place where the dream represented him as having married, and, strange to relate, found a lady corresponding to the one of which he dreamed, proposed to her, and the two were married in a few days.

PRETTY GIRL TO CHARLES—"Charley, how far is it around the world? Isn't it twenty-four thousand—," Charles, (who adores pretty girl, and puts both arms around her)—"That's all a mistake, my love; it is only about twenty-four inches." She was all the world to him.

ODD FELLOWS.—The Odd Fellows' Library Association of San Francisco desire all Odd Fellows in good standing, visiting the city, immediately on their arrival to enter names and residences in a register provided for that purpose, permanently placed in their rooms.

IN the depths of the sea the waters are still; the heaviest grief is that borne in silence; the deepest love flows through the eye and touch; the purest joy is unspeakable; the most impressive preacher at a funeral is the silent one whose lips are cold.

IDENTIFYING.—Among the ashes of the Erie Railroad wreck was found a body, and on it an accident insurance ticket for $3,000. around which the fire had burned everything away, but leaving this, and thus identifying the charred remains.

A LITTLE boy, on coming home from church, where he had seen a person work the bellows of the organ, said to his mother: "Oh, mamma, I wish you had been to church to-day. Such fun! A man pumped music out of an old cupboard!"

A LAWYER on his death-bed, willed all his property to a lunatic asylum, stating as his reason for so doing, that he wished his property to return to the liberal class of people who had patronized him.

A COUNTRY SCHOOLMASTER thus describes a money-lender: "He serves you in the present tense; he lends you in the conditional mood; keeps you in the subjunctive; and ruins you in the future!"

THE funniest incident that has lately transpired is the case of a doting mother, who, being satisfied that her child merited a flogging, first had him placed under the influence of chloroform.

It is said that an instructor in a school for young ladies in Berlin has been discharged because he gave, as a subject for essay, "sentiments and feelings at the sight of an officer of cavalry."

A COUNTRY PAPER says there is a man in that neighborhood so mean that he sits on the doorsteps of the church on Sundays to save the wear of his pew cushions.

"THAT was greedy of you, Tommy, to eat your little sister's share of the cake." "You told me, ma, that I was always to take her part," said Tommy.
